

This community is truly remarkable. Whether gathering in homes, at church, or at Blair Oaks, people come together when it matters most. Some residents grew up here, while others, like me, came from elsewhere. Either way, I deeply appreciate the small-town spirit and support this community continues to show.

When we announced our goal of raising $10,000 for the flagpole and Veterans Memorial Stone, local businesses and residents responded with extraordinary generosity.

We reached our goal in just 45 days, well ahead of the little more than eight weeks we had allowed. Although many contributors prefer to remain anonymous, I would like to recognize several businesses and residents who generously stepped forward.
